

St Paul's students assist children's unit

Melissa Brueton and Jake Hemphill, Year 7 students from St Pauls Anglican Grammar School, Traralgon Campus presented a cheque for $500 to Helen Sambell, Unit Manager of Tarra Unit at Latrobe Regional Hospital.

The money was raised from the proceeds of a Food & Wine Festival which was recently held at the school and over 1,200 people attended.

While visiting the hospital, Unit Manager Helen Sambell gave a tour of the children's unit and explained about some of the equipment used to monitor and treat sick children.

The children are now keen to nearly triple this donation and raise extra funds to purchase an oximeter.

Melissa and Jake have great fundraising ideas and would like to hold crazy sock days and crazy hair days to raise the extra funds.

The students from St Paul's nominated the Latrobe Regional Hospital children's unit as the recipient of their donations as they "just want to help the kids".
